

DEMONSTRATION NOTICE

U.S. Embassy
La Paz, Bolivia

January 31, 2011
11:09 AM

The U.S. Embassy in La Paz has received information about the following non-violent demonstration in the city of La Paz:

The U.S. Embassy is expecting approximately 200 to 300 demonstrators to protest in front of the main entrance of the Embassy on Ave. Arce in Sopocachi at 10:00 hrs today. At this moment, there are approximately 35 protestors with a banner across the street from Ave. Arce. We will update you later with further information. - Appointments for consular services for today remain valid, assuming no deterioration in the security situation.

While we anticipate that the demonstration will be peaceful, there is always the possibility that the situation could change. If you park your vehicles outside of the Embassy compound, we cannot give any assurance that they will not be damaged and you should make plans accordingly.

The U.S. Embassy reminds you that demonstrations and road blockades are not unusual in Bolivia, and even though they might be intended to be peaceful they can turn confrontational between security forces, demonstrators, and bystanders, and escalate into violence. You should avoid them if at all possible. If you find yourself in the vicinity of a large gathering, you should leave the area immediately for your own safety. Be alert and aware of your surroundings and pay attention to what the local news media has to say. Please note that the police have limited capabilities outside major cities and communication is poor.

You can stay in touch and get Embassy updates by checking the Embassy website, found here. You can also get global updates at the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Consular Affairs website where you can find the current Worldwide Caution, Travel Warnings, Travel Alerts, and Country Specific Information.
